Remains Found Yesterday Confirmed to be Those of Chatham County Man Reported Missing Last Week

Chatham County, GA (February 12, 2021) – Remains found in a wooded area yesterday have been confirmed to be those of 72-year-old Norman Lack, who was reported missing from Chatham County last week.

Late yesterday afternoon, Chatham County Police officers were called to a wooded area off of McWhorter Drive where the body of a deceased adult had been found. An autopsy was conducted today, and the remains positively identified as those of Norman Lack. No foul play is suspected in his death.

Lack was reported missing last week after last being seen by family members on February 2, 2021.
